Diving and Hyperbaric Medicine Journal June 2018 issue available now

To all members of EUBS and SPUMS

Dear Colleagues,

It is our pleasure to announce the launch of the second on-line issue of Diving and Hyperbaric Medicine on June 27, 2018.

Access is easy. Please log in to your society website with your Username and Password as a Member, then:

SPUMS members: Click on the "DHM journal" pull-down menu, then Click on "Journal embargoed issues"

EUBS members: Go to "Access to the DHM Journal", then Click on "here".

There are clear instructions on accessing embargoed issues which are restricted to the exclusive use of society members only.

DHM on-line has been set up in as flexible manner as possible. Members of SPUMS and EUBS can:

Read the journal on line on any smart devices/computers using a magazine-type user interface (including magnifying and scrolling);

Download a pdf and save it to file in its entirety so it can also be read in pdf format instead of web-based format (you cannot extract pages from this pdf version, only from the on-line version);

Select specific articles from the on-line version for either saving to file or printing;

Print the saved-to-device version in its entirety for personal use);

Select any web or email address and DOI, PMID and PMCID numbers listed in references – these are all now active hyperlinks.

There are many other items and links to explore on the DHM website. The entire collection of Diving and Hyperbaric Medicine back to March 2007 is now available on the site. We would value any feedback from members that might improve this service. Please address your emails to info@dhmjournal.com.

Good reading!

David Smart, President SPUMS
